LONDON, June 5.—Plans for the mass evacuation of British children to unspecified points in the Dominions were revealed today as Nazi Germany launched a large-scale offensive against Paris, Le Havre and Cherbourg.

While initial reports in London indicated that Chancellor Hitler's new drive had been launched with incredible speed, Geoffrey Shakespear, parliamentary secretary for the Dominions, told the house of commons that such evacuation is receiving "urgent consideration" by the government.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Helen Adams, of 424 Hillcrest avenue, reports to Pa New that a yellow calla lily is blooming at the present time in the yard at her home. The huge bloom, a rare one, is said to be exceptionally beautiful.

Along the wall of the local post office, on the lawn, grow a number of shrubs named Glossy Abelia. Up until this time not many leaves have appeared upon the twigs which extend from the body of the low shrub. From all appearances most of the twigs appear to be dead. Passersby have often asked custodian George F. Mitchell why he does not trim off the "dead" parts. Mr. Mitchell states that the Glossy Abelias will not be fully leaved until August or September.

Pa New notes that there is a bad hole, about a foot wide in the pavement of Leasure avenue at the corner of North Mercer street, which gives motorists quite a bump when they strike it unexpectedly.

Summer weather has been a long while getting here, but it has been making up for lost time the last few days. Vegetation, which has been well watered by the copious rains of the past few days, is responding to the sun's warmth accordingly.

An improvement which will be greatly appreciated is being carried forward at the Jameson Memorial hospital, where a new sidewalk is being laid from Leasure avenue to the hospital entrance, bordering the front drive. In bad weather, people walking to the hospital have had to—

Hitler Orders Nation Pay Army Homage As New Battle Opens

(International News Service)
BERLIN, June 5.—Revealing that a new battle has begun "for the freedom of the future German nation," Chancellor Hitler today ordered the Nazi Reich to hoist its flags and pay homage to the German army.

With the battle of Flanders pronounced at a victorious end, the Fuehrer from his field headquarters issued a proclamation to the German people, ordering flags displayed for eight days "in honor of the glorious deeds of German soldiers."

The proclamation also called for three days of church-bell ringing and stated:

See Possibility Of War On American Shores

By JOSEPH H. SAIRD

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The administration today faced a realistic possibility what even a few weeks ago seemed a fantastic dream—the chance that Europe's bitter war might move to North American shores.

Two of Great Britain's highest spokesmen have, within the last 24 hours, admitted the English motherland might be conquered by Nazi Germany, leaving the Dominions—meaning, primarily, Canada—to carry on the war. That would imply the basing of a large part of the British fleet in Canadian waters and the extension of warfare to America's northern neighbor, which President Roosevelt has included under the protective wing of the Monroe doctrine.

Possibility Seen

Thus the possibility of American involvement in the war by circumstances much more direct than the sending of an expeditionary force to Europe is reluctantly admitted by realistic observers.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A firm American warning against foreign trespass in the western hemisphere was fashioned in congress today as final contours of the $5,000,000,000 defense program were shaped.

At the same time legislators considered two other vital issues—President Roosevelt's request for power to mobilize the national guards, and the resolution of Sen. Pepper (D) Fla., which would permit sale of army and navy weapons to the allies.

Both senate and house foreign relations committees debated the American warning—embodied in a New Deal resolution declaring that the United States would oppose transfer of any western world territory from one non-American country to another. Approval was confidently predicted.

Ponder Guard Proposal

The house military committee met to act on the national guard proposal. Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, told its members that the guard mobilization power was necessary to safeguard the new world.

Pepper's resolution was before the senate foreign relations committee. Members said that it would be defeated, despite scattered support developing in the last 36 hours.

New Third Term Angle Now Being Advanced

WASHINGTON, June 5.—High New Dealers are informing Democratic leaders of Congress today that President Roosevelt will accept a third term nomination and, if re-elected, resign the presidency as soon as the second World War ends.

This report, widely circulated on Capitol Hill, explains the sudden Democratic activity over the second-place nomination. If true, it means that the next Democratic vice president of the United States in event that Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected and the war ends in less than four years.

The Roosevelt "President-For-Less-Than-A-Year" report has provoked conflicting rumors over his choice of a running-mate. Last week, there was a brief flurry of talk over a harmony ticket of Roosevelt and Garner, with the president pictured as ready to accept Vice President John N. Garner for another term.

The Garner rumor, however, died by the wayside when the New Dealers brought out the report that Mr. Roosevelt would not serve out a third term if re-elected. The New Dealers immediately said Garner was too old for the post and that the president desired a much younger man and a New Dealer as his running-mate. This led to speculative reports that Mr. Roosevelt favored a rather long list of individuals, who are rather young and New Dealers.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The house ways and means committee today voted to boost the Doughton $656,000,000 tax bill by at least $200,000,000, and to broaden the income tax base to bring in new taxpayers and increase rates upon so-called middle-class income.

A tax sub-committee headed by Rep. Cooper (D) Tenn., was instructed to draft a new tax bill for the full committee.

"We will consider broadening the tax base," said Chairman Doughton (D) N. C. "The sub-committee is instructed to prepare amendments to raise at least $200,000,000 more and a larger amount if it is necessary to adjust the burden equitably. If we get taxes out of the middle brackets, it may be necessary to make other adjustments."

The tentative committee plan includes proposed lowering of the exemptions for single persons from $1,000 to $800 and for married persons from $2,500 to $1,800. It also includes an increase in taxes on middle groups incomes, especially those between $5,000 and $60,000.

PARIS, June 5.—Nazi Germany's long-awaited "grand offensive" against Paris was launched along a front of at least 100 miles today and late this evening all indications pointed to firm defense by Allied troops holding out against successive waves of attacks by infantry and dive-bombers.

PARIS, June 5.—Hurling up a curtain of artillery fire, massed infantry attacks and waves of dive-bombers, Germany unleashed her "grand offensive" against Paris today, along a front estimated at between 80 and 100 miles.

In a gigantic effort for a quick victory, Chancellor Hitler launched his legions into a new western front struggle that may decide the fate of Paris and climax the first stage of Europe's war.

The new German drive, begun with stunning suddenness at 4 a. m., struck southward between the French coast and the Laon-Soissons road.

(Editor's Note: A French language broadcast by the official British radio, intercepted in New York by NBC, said violent activity began between the Somme Estuary and the Maginot Line. It added that "some of the best British units in France" are active between the Somme and the Swiss (sic) border.)

Check Up On Aliens In Pennsylvania

Quiet Survey Is Being Made

Special Attention Given To Listing Aliens Employed In Industries

MAY BE 350,000

ALIENS IN STATE

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, June 5.—Pennsylvania is making a quiet survey of aliens living in the state, especially those employed in important plants and industries, it was disclosed today.

The work is being done in cooperation with private industry whose data is to be furnished to the state for future reference and possible use in connection with defense measures being taken against "fifth column" activities.

The state alien registration bureau is now making a survey of all private industrial concerns which have made a census of their alien employees. This will be followed by a tabulation by the state of all the data gathered.

Before the Pennsylvania alien registration law was ruled unconstitutional by a federal court, state authorities had completed plans to obtain the names of working aliens through private surveys. Scores of companies agreed to make the survey in cooperation with the state.

Companies Continue Survey
Since the law was ruled unconstitutional and the alien registration bureau was forced to curtail its activities, many of these companies have gone ahead on their own initiative with surveys of aliens employed by them.

Companies engaged in filling government contracts or in the manufacture of products important to the nation's defense have shifted alien employees from key positions, placing them in less important posts. The alien registration bureau was able to gather together considerable data on aliens in Pennsylvania before its activities were curtailed for one thing, it estimated the number of aliens in Pennsylvania at 350,000, sharply taking issue with the department of public instruction. This department estimated the number at only 130,000.

The alien registration bureau also made a survey of prisoners in several penitentiaries and discovered that an unusually large number of them were aliens.

This data, and other information which has not been made public, has been turned over to Adjutant General Edward Martin, head of the Pennsylvania National Guard, whose office has unofficially become the clearing house for coordination of the state's defense program.

grated machinery of the preparedness drive ground into action. While Secretary of Commerce Hopkins enlisted the inventive genius of the land in a special group to develop new fighting weapons, the following events came swiftly:

1. Unpublished testimony on the relief bill disclosed plans to use 250,000 relief workers and spend $150,000,000 of WPA money on such vital projects as airports, armories, rifle ranges and mobilization centers.

2. National Youth Administrator Aubrey Williams announced a basic mechanical training program for 450,000 youths a year, and called on key industrial leaders to cooperate.

3. Edward R. Stettinius cut his ties with U. S. Steel to join William S. Knudsen of General Motors and Labor Leader Sidney Hillman in administering the production end of the defense drive. The machine tool industry promised not to export its defense-vital production until domestic commitments were filled and labor arrangements in cooperation in the rearmament drive.

4. House leaders moved to speed action on the latest phase of the program, measures adding $1,277,741,700 of army and navy money and contractual authorizations.

5. The senate called up army authorization legislation, removing the ceiling from personnel and equipment limitations, permitting the president to clamp down an embargo against export of vital materials, and approving appropriation of funds to the executive for his personal distribution to speed production.

6. Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones said that loan machinery would be ready to help industry expand, as congress prepared to act on legislation authorizing such lending.

7. House leaders rushed measures to provide new taxes and lift the statutory debt limit to pay for the huge military expansion.

Cornerstone legislation for the defense program has passed both houses already, and agreement on differing versions of house and senate was scheduled for half a dozen important bills before the end of the week.

contained a pungent paragraph that is being closely studied in Washington.

Admitting that the German war machine might sweep through Britain, leaving it helpless, he said that even if that happened, the empire "guarded by the British fleet, in the time the new world, with all its forces and men, sets forth to the liberation and rescue of the old world."

There has been considerable speculation in recent weeks as to whether Britain, threatened with a "blitzkrieg" that might devastate its civil population, would surrender its fleet as the price of avoiding that horror. Churchill, it was noted, has answered this question with a firm "no."

That, while freeing the administration of one worry—a Germany might on the sea as well as on land and in the air—provides it with another equally grave. It is the general opinion of officials that the United States would find it impossible to remain out of a European war being fought in a North American theatre of operations.

HITLER ORDERS NATION TO PAY ARMY HOMAGE

morning again started a new battle for the freedom of the future German nation."

Hitler issued an order of the day for the German defense forces, eulogizing the exploits, gallantry and endurance of German soldiers in defeating the Dutch, Belgians, French and British in the low countries and Flanders and in finishing the "greatest battle in history."

"Within a few weeks," he said, "you forced two countries to capitulate, annihilated France's best and defeated the British Expeditionary Force and chased it from the continent."

"The plutocratic rulers of England and France who conspired to frustrate by all means the flourishing of a new and better world desire continuation of the war."

"Our soldiers on the western front, beginning today, again are participating in new battles."

"Countless fresh divisions which will see the foe for the first time and will defeat him will join you."

"For Nation's Freedom."

"The battle for the freedom of our nation, for its existence or non-existence, for the future, will therefore be continued until the annihilation is accomplished of those enemy rulers of London and Paris who still believe they see in war a better means for realization of their plans of hostility toward nations."

"Our victory will teach them better."

The Fuehrer's pronouncement followed Germany's previous announcement of the capture of Dunkerque and a statement last night from Hitler's headquarters hailing the end of the battle of Flanders as the "greatest military victory of all times."

German forces were declared ready for the second stage of the war—"final and complete annihilation of all allied forces," the statement said.

"Since our enemies continue to reject peace, they will get war to final destruction."

BRITISH MAY SEND CHILDREN TO DOMINIONS

terpreted as an admission that British plans to transfer her seat of operations to Canada.)

British advisers said the fighting extends from the Abbeville area on the French coast to the region of Flanders.

In the sector south of St. Quentin, it was stated, the Germans are striking great blows in "blitzkrieg" style, combining dive bombing attacks with tank thrusts.

(Editor's Note: A military spokesman in Paris indicated the Germans had not yet brought more than "mobile" armored elements into action.)

Great Masses of Infantry
But near Flanders, British information indicated the Germans were hurling forward great masses of infantry, supported by tremendous artillery barrages.

Since the Germans are known to have been concentrating artillery in this sector for some days, this push would resemble the 1918 style, though here again, officials said, later reports from the front should be awaited.

British quarters said it was also difficult as yet to decide whether the Germans have launched a two-pronged offensive—one from Abbeville and another from Flanders, or whether they have attacked along the whole front between these sectors.

Seeking Weak Spot
But it seems certain the Germans are delivering blows in "one-two-three" style in an endeavor to find a weak spot for a breakthrough.

Reports to London strongly suggest that French anti-tank guns are being used with deadly effect and that last month's reports that these guns could not pierce German tank armor are definitely not true.

Therefore, it was conjectured, both the French anti-tank units and their famous 75-millimeter guns may have been gathered in sufficient numbers to blunt the German armored spearhead before any serious damage has been inflicted upon the French flank, always provided the French are willing to strike with their total power.

In addition, it was stated, devastating German air bombardments have been carried out from the coast inland and clear back to Havre and Cherbourg with the object of paralyzing French communication centers and concentration points.

Aerial Warfare Quickens
The new German drive fulfilled British expectations that it would renew her offensive with all possible haste and that Hitler would unleash a new thunderbolt on the Somme river against the heart of France.

(Editor's Note: In a proclamation to the German people, Hitler stated: "Your prayers from now on accompany our soldiers who this morning again started a new battle for the freedom of the future German nation.")

British quarters saw the tempo of aerial warfare gradually speeding up and forecast that each side would carry out increasingly numerous "vengeance raids."

These predictions followed last night's air ministry announcement that British planes on Monday night bombed a section of Germany extending from Emmerich to Frankfurt.

The air ministry said oil tanks at Emmerich were set on fire by bombs and that munitions works at Monheim were attacked. At many points in the Ruhr, it was added, fuel plants, oil tanks and munitions works were bombed successfully.

At the International Conference of all Red Cross societies of the world, held two years ago, a unanimous appeal was made to all nations to enter into agreements prohibiting the bombing of open towns and cities or at least to establish zones of immunity where civilians could seek sanctuary.

"This appeal has not been heeded. In fact established agreement against warfare on civilians are not even being respected. may affect the heart
Gas trapped in the stomach or bowels may get into a heart-trigger on the heart. At the first sign of distress, smart and sudden, do not wait. Take a little of the famous "Double Dose" medicine known for its indigestion. If the "FIRST DOSE" doesn't work, take a second, before the gas gets into the heart and causes DOUBLED BLOOD PRESSURE.

Honoring Miss Ruth Gahles of this city, bride-elect of Lloyd Williams of New Castle, her aunt, Mrs. T. D. Gahles of Tenth avenue, Beaver Falls, entertained guests numbering 40 on Tuesday evening at a "pantry shelf" shower.

The early period was spent enjoyably with card contests, smart prizes for honors going to Mrs. Walter Couch, Miss Theresa Thompson and Mrs. Jesse Rowe, all residents of Beaver Falls. Afterwards, the hostess served a dainty repast at small tables which were prettily rearranged in tones of pink and white.

The honoree was later showered with many delicious delicacies to store on her pantry shelf when she goes to housekeeping.

MEN'S CLUB ELECTS CONVENTION DELEGATE

Prof. Charles G. Lindger was elected delegate to attend the annual convention of Men's Garden Clubs of America at Hotel Shelton, New York City, July 18, 19 and 20, when members of the local Men's Garden club had their meeting Tuesday evening at The Castleton.

Paul M. Allen, president, had charge of the meeting when reports were heard on the various projects being sponsored by the club. Spring planting on the projects have been completed with the planting of four taxus yews on the public square and two more ginkgo trees on Rural avenue.

The report of the arboretum committee for Cunningham Park brought forth elaborate discussion owing to the fact that there is so much vandalism in Cunningham Park, making it difficult to plan for an arboretum without some police protection.

Charles N. Giddings, the evening's speaker, gave an instructive lecture on "How to Trim and Care for Trees." He stressed the necessity of making clean cuts close to the limb of the tree and immediately covering it with paint. He also brought out the fact that some trees are not injured by bleeding from late trimming, this being proved in recent experiments at State College. This is not true in the case of grapes which do sometimes bleed to death by late trimming. A question and answer period ensued, bringing out much helpful information.

Hoyle Paxton, of Chicago, president of the Men's Garden Clubs of America, hopes to be able to stop here en route to the New York convention and the local club is making plans to have their next meeting at that time in order to entertain Mr. Paxton.

THE AMERICAN "SIXTH COLUMN"

AN American with a humorous twist behind his query wants to know what makes up the "Sixth Column" we are hearing and reading about as prepared to combat the Fifth Column in this country.

The answer is that the Federal Government and other agencies, including some in the State governments, are busy working up a system of protection, especially against sabotage in factories working on war orders either for the Allies or our own Army or Navy. If this activity is assisted by the voluntary aid of patriotic workmen and others, so much the better.

We can call that our "Sixth Column" if we like. But it will be more appropriate and more in accordance with our history and traditions if we regard the bulk of the American people as the real "Sixth Column" eager to combat and stamp out traitorous elements.

The great mass of earnest, patriotic Americans don't go around shouting about their patriotism. But when the time comes it's inside them and gets to work. They are the real Americans who wholeheartedly believe in their country and its democratic ideals.

BICYCLES UNSAFE FOR TWO

Death of a six-year-old boy in a traffic accident in a nearby locality, while riding on a bicycle with an older brother, directs attention to what has been a rather common practice—that of two children riding a bicycle on streets or highways.

While this may seem a convenient way to provide transportation for a friend or another member of the family, the danger involved should not be ignored, as the balancing and guiding of a bicycle is made much more difficult by the second person being on either the handlebar or frame rod, and, in the event of accident, the chance of serious injury or death is increased.

In some places there is a law against this practice, with inclination toward quite rigid enforcement.

Youthful riders, as well as their parents, would do well, however, to keep in mind the added hazard of carrying a second person on a bicycle and to urge abandonment of this practice.

NAIL THAT FAD!

Can it be that a new social stratum is forming to confound an unwary nation? Reference is to those ladies with the two-inch-long incriminated sharp talons who pose languidly with their hands as if to proclaim, "See, we are the latest do-nothing class. Our lovely tapering fingernails must be preserved at all costs. We really must not risk breaking off their polished perfection, so we do no arduous work."

If memory serves, there was at one time a haughty Chinese caste whose wealth and enjoyment of leisure was advertised to all by hideous six-inch-long claws, making their owners (gladly enough, no doubt) dependent upon servants for every daily task. And now where are those Oriental exotics? Japan alone knows.

Not that American ladies are going decadent, bless 'em; but someone should serve fair warning that if or when they grow their gory-painted nails one whit longer, grimaced Jack-the-Clippers will spring out of the shadows and ruthlessly trim those silly claws right to the quick. And, having been warned, they will be unable to plead surprise.

ALLIED MORALE

Judging by the tenor of the reports given in Britain by the badly bent, but not broken, remnants of the Allied force which fought in Flanders there is no probability that the people back of the fighting armies of France and Britain are in imminent danger of losing their war morale.

Before the war started there was wide speculation whether the people, slowly stirred to wrath by Nazi tactics of aggression, could long maintain their determination to eliminate the Nazis as a factor in Europe in face of the terrific punishment the war was expected to impose upon civilians and combatants alike.

The war has already dealt out this punishment in every phase save poison gas. But every other horror has been brought to bear, including by eye-witness testimony the strafing of helpless refugees. The battle of Flanders has shown the Nazi at its worst in the calculated destruction of men.

Yet there is no sign of a wavering of morale. Indeed, it appears to be stiffening in France and Britain, the countries now suffering most and against whom future blows are being aimed. There will be no breaking of the mass spirit in these countries just as there was not in Spain until the last hope was gone and as there has not been in China to this day.

U. S. SURPLUS NEEDED

The war in Belgium and Northern France had not been raging long before the French people realized that they had a refugee problem on their hands which would strain all their resources. From the North came thousands of helpless human beings, stripped of all possessions, homeless, dazed by the shock of totalitarian war. Five million people have been driven from their homes. It is estimated that two million more were caught inside the line in Flanders.

The French are doing what they can to house and feed the refugees. As the first wave of humanity flowed into Paris, it was moved on toward the South and safety. But the problems of housing, transportation and feeding have become acute. It is hard, at this distance, to grasp the seriousness of the situation for the French people and the French government.

But one fact is clear. There is a surplus of foodstuffs in this country. Normal channels of trade are being cut off one by one. What this nation has in abundance is desperately needed abroad. The efforts of the Red Cross and other groups organized for relief will not begin to solve the European refugee problem.

Somehow, by one method or another, the American surplus should be put at the disposal of the innocent victims of aggression. Whether one believes in intervention, isolation or all "methods short of war," the validity of the pleas made in the name of the chief sufferers of the German campaign must be admitted.

Congressman Dies says Fifth Column traitors are more numerous in the United States than anywhere else. But they sure are headed for the last roundup.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

P. T. A. URGED TO RENEW FIRST PURPOSES

THE CHILD and his parents ought to be the major interest of the P. T. A. The original purpose of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers was to form groups of mothers who desired to educate themselves to wiser parenthood. This purpose was so stated by the founders, Mrs. Theodore W. Birney and Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst at the first national meeting, in the home of Mrs. Hearst in Washington, D. C., in 1897.

Since then, the P. T. A. has broadened its membership to include father, teachers and anybody else interested. Its objectives have widened to comprise the following:

"To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church, and community.

"To raise the standards of home life.

"To secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth.

"To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may co-operate intelligently in the training of the child.

"To develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social, and spiritual education."

A Santa Claus?

These worthy objectives are widely approved. However, the average member of the local P. T. A. is not always fully aware of these objectives, nor is he likely to arrive at them should he even attend every meeting of the year. All too often, he supposes that the major purpose of the P. T. A. is to put on parties, money-raising schemes in order to buy equipment for the school (which should be purchased out of public funds).

Pathetically, a great many school superintendents and principals think that the main purpose of the P. T. A. is to be school-supply Santa Claus, with periodic diversions at drumming up votes in the school district for school bonds and special school tax levies.

About fifteen years ago, there was vigorous emphasis from the National Board down to the local P. T. A. on child development, child guidance, and family relationships, under the general heading of parent education. Better parenthood and happier family life seemed to be the central theme as it was when the organization was founded 43 years ago; parent study groups on parenthood were epidemic America over in the P. T. A.

Wouldn't it be well now for the local P. T. A. presidents, in planning their programs for next year, to keep in mind the child and his parents?

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—Industrialist Eugene Deservine believes state absolutism follows Godlessness.

"Human rights and individual freedom cannot exist unless they are anchored and have a sanction superior in authority to men."

NEW YORK — Attorney General Robert H. Jackson finds conflicts the greatest tests of democracy.
"The ultimate test of our civilization is in ordering our peacetime life to prevent conflicts or to adjust them before they reach violent proportions."

"We cannot assume that those who have no respect for democratic governments elsewhere will respect ours in America."

"I cannot say that freedom will survive anywhere in the world out I can say that its major anchorage and greatest hope lie in this great nation."

LILACS
The old tree comes to bloom once more

The lilac tree the mother knew
And watched and watered as it grew
The lilac tree beside the door.

Older by many years than when
She saw the spring return again
Older by years and taller grown
The clustered branches stretching high

As if they meant to catch the eye
Of her whose love they used to own.

Like an old servant of the past
Serving the family to the last.

Age comes to trees as well as men
And here is one of right good will

Greeting the June with blossoms still,
And for the spring, as blithe as when

The one who loved it, year by year
And for her family set it here.

A cop in Grove City pinched five calves for belling in the streets of that place. Wonder how he stands on blatant auto horn blowing?

Meet a man half way these days, listen to what he has to say, and you'll never get back again.

At Uniontown, Pa., two men were arrested and put in jail for decorating the grave of a war veteran that is on a game preserve. They were pinched for trespassing. The game preserve is sacred to a lot of people who don't do much of anything else.

STREET CAR COURTESY
Here's further evidence of the courtesy and thoughtfulness of our street car and bus men. It's true—'Believe it or not.'

This story which I am about to tell

Has to do with the goods OUR bus men sell.

We took a bus to the end of the line.

Arrived early, so the driver killed time.

The passengers boarded, he made ready to go.

When a woman rose in her seat and said, 'Oh!

'I've forgotten my teeth, will you wait for me?'

Then bolted right out without waiting to see.

The driver waited at the wheel as calm as could be

But the passengers rocked the bus with glee.

She returned quickly, just in a trice

Fitted and furnished and—wasn't he nice?

'Jock' said A. C. to a friend on the street, 'I didn't see you at church last Sunday.'

'Ye wouldn't' snapped Jock. 'Ye was passin' the collection plate.'

The reason a lot of business men prefer simply toast and coffee for breakfast at home is because they have to get it themselves.

Readers Questions Answered
Question: Our club would like some information on introductions—youngee people to older, to distinguished personages, young women to young men and our friends to our parents.—Edith.

Answer: Younger women are always introduced to older women—Mrs. Older, this is Miss Younger.

Men—old or young—are always introduced to women—old or young, unless the man is a distinguished personage, such as the President of the United States, a high dignitary of the church or a reigning monarch, in which case women are introduced to him. And these are the only cases in which women are introduced to men. You should introduce your friends to your parents, always never; your parents to your friends.

Question: To whom should wedding announcements be sent and when should they be mailed?—Bride.

Answer: To all of your friends and relatives (whom you wish informed of the event) not invited to the ceremony. They should be addressed and ready to be mailed on the wedding day, immediately after the ceremony.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

When a shotgun is found in an attic or cellar besides a dead body all the coroner has to do is to take a look.

When a motorcycle hit an automobile at Greensburg the car was swerved over and stopped on the top of the motorcycle and the driver was tossed 20 feet in the air. When those cykes get going good they are hard to stop.

Even if we had the power to see ourselves as others see us it wouldn't be unanimous.

It was at the navy parachute class. A young airman was greatly interested in the life preservers of the sky.

Today we have no Army it is so insignificant—seventy-five thousand men, with practically no modern arms. Congress is now wrangling over what kind of a rifle shall be adopted. The rifle adopted should be, as much as possible, a secret weapon. Its mechanism, as far as possible, should not be disclosed to the rest of the world. The sort of a rifle to be adopted should be left entirely to the Army Chiefs themselves. It would take two or more years to equip an Army of the United States of sufficient strength to resist any attack upon the integrity of the Nation. Aside from being very short in the number of war planes, we are tremendously short in anti-aircraft guns and many of our great seaport cities have none whatsoever. New York has very few, Boston less and San Francisco still less.

Then, there is the matter of equipment for soldiers—clothing, particularly. Think of a nation that can put five million fully equipped men into the field. How long do you think it would take this country to equip five million men? Universal military training would do more than provide the nation with a bulwark of defense. It would educate the young men of the nation in those things for which an education is needed; it would teach them trades. It would take up the slack of unemployment. There would be no necessity of the W.P.A. or the P.W.A. and not much necessity for relief money.

MORE MILITARY FLYERS
I see that the President wishes Congress to approve an appropriation sufficient to build fifty thousand airplanes. That is fine, but who is going to fly these fifty thousand airplanes or any part of them? The great need of this nation today is not only airplanes, but trained pilots and trained mechanics, to fly and care for these planes and, of course, all of these men must be soldiers—a part of the Army and Navy of the United States.

When the last great war was ended, this Nation had many training camps, beautifully equipped for training soldiers. These camps had every modern improvement—the streets were paved; they had sanitary plumbing, electric lines to supply electricity and gas lines to supply gas; the men were housed in excellent quarters. In fact, every camp presented the appearance of a city. No better time could have been taken by Congress to establish a system of universal military training in this country. Such a system would have enabled the Nation at all times to have a trained army, equipped for any man's war—guns, ammunition and above all, ability to fight a war intelligently. It would not have made the nation eager for conquest. It would, however, enable the nation to protect itself in emergencies.

British Claim Nazis Lose Near Half Million

(International News Service)
LONDON, June 5.—German casualties in the recent Flanders battle totaled between 400,000 and 500,000 men, an authoritative British estimate stated tonight.

(Editor's Note: In a special communique last night, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler estimated the German casualties at slightly more than 10,000 men.)

According to British estimates, the Germans threw 2,500,000 troops into the Flanders battle, including ten armored and five motorized divisions.

All divisions lost heavily, according to the British, especially the so-called Panzer (mechanized) divisions.

The latter, it was said, lost from one-third to one-half their strength. (Editor's Note: The French war office today declared that in their newly-launched drive against Paris, the Germans for the first time concentrated their attacks on infantry and the air force, with the famous motorized units comprising a "negligible" factor.)

Wounded, But Free from Trap in Flanders

Wounded warriors of the British Expeditionary Force and of the French army are carried piggy-back down the gangplank of a hospital ship at an undisclosed British port after being evacuated from the Nazi trap in Flanders. The Great Game Of Politics

FOR one thing, they point out that the argument upon which the whole third-term attempt is based—to wit, that you must not "swap horses while crossing a stream"—is made ridiculous by the fact that both England and France have changed the heads of their governments and the commanders of their armies while crossing a stream far more turbulent and dangerous than any with which we will have to struggle. They are actually in a war, and we are not and may never be. For another, they point out that while the nation as a whole is back of the President's defense program, that does not mean that the nation accepts the New Deal theory of the Indispensable Man.

ON the contrary, it is asserted that the reaction to Mr. Roosevelt personally since his firestorm chat has not been favorable. Reasons for this are given as follows: First, that that talk had a distinct political flavor which was generally recognized; second, that his coalition cabinet gestures were too transparent to fool anyone; third, that he had to be prodded into support of a tax bill by public sentiment and Congress; fourth, that he too clearly wants to keep the defense program in New Deal hands.

ALTOGETHER, the comment shows a nation unitedly desirous of adequate defense but not in the least united in the belief that Mr. Roosevelt is the best man to provide it. The more astute New Dealers are aware of this fact, but that does not modify their confidence that Mr. Roosevelt will accept the nomination. In the whole man who dissects from that view. His name is James A. Farley. Mr. Roosevelt told Mr. Farley last August that he would not run. He has never indicated to him a change of mind. Mr. Farley's attitude has been—and up to this minute still is—that he meant what he said.

Brest Makes New Freedom Attempt

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—Release from Alcatraz prison was sought for the second time today by Harold M. Brest, 30-year-old Pennsylvania kidnaper, and Volant bank robber.

Brest's latest legal move was the filing of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in U. S. district court at San Francisco. He contends the Federal government kidnapped him from Alcatraz in March, 1939, after he had been granted freedom through a previous writ of habeas corpus.

The convict charged he was seized without notice to his attorney and returned to Pittsburgh for retrial. There Brest was retried and again sentenced to life imprisonment by the same judge who had sentenced him on the kidnapping conviction in 1937.

What's What At A Glance

You have to call in at police headquarters and ask to have it attended to.

The charge is nominal—just enough to pay for your small photograph and the actual cost of the cedula.

But before the transaction's completed considerable investigating has to be done, and the police take their time about it—a month, maybe. Now, possibly, for some reason, you want your cedula in a hurry. In that event you can expedite matters by a tip to just the right functionary. He'll hasten the investigation all he can. There won't be anything phoney about it, for it would make him serious trouble to have one of his cedulas found on a captured malefactor. But you can get yours in a couple of days for the Argentine equivalent of a $10 bill. I don't defend this tipping system. I think the Argentine police ought to be ashamed of it. All the same, the fact that the average cedula-seeker is willing to pay considerably extra to be registered and finger printed as fast as possible rather goes to show that he recognizes the system as a convenience, not a reflection upon him. Maybe Uncle Sam, if he chose, could popularize HIS system in the same way, and make a little money out of it also.

Electrical Experimental Farm Near Volant Is Inspected On Tuesday

Approximately 800 persons, mostly people engaged in agriculture, participated in the public inspection of the R. N. Moose & Sons electrical experimental farm, a 100-acre plot along the New Wilmington-Volant highway, Tuesday.

The farm is devoted to dairy and poultry products and the Moose family of seven is dependent upon the farm. The practical experiment which has been under way almost a year is for the purpose of showing what electricity can do to reduce the cost of agriculture.

According to Moose, each electrical device on the farm has a separate meter and it has been possible to determine the cost of each operation. A summarizing of the experiment at the farm shows that the nine months operation was at a cost of 55 cents a day.

In Experiment

Here is what the experiment per month consisted of:

Cooler 945 gallons of milk, averaged 9½ tons of chopped hay and ensilage, ground 4,440 pounds of feed, shelled 1,530 pounds of corn, mixed 7,200 pounds of feed, warmed water for 900 hens, provided lighting for poultry houses.

Candled 12,000 eggs; used in operating chicken brooders; illuminated the barn, yard, house and used for cooking, refrigeration; water power and ironing; pumped 2,900 gallons of water; heated 1,250 gallons of water and used also for radio, vacuum cleaner and clock.

The inspection period was from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. The experiment was conducted by R. N. Moose & Sons, with the cooperation of the Pennsylvania Power company, agricultural engineering department of Penn State college and the Lawrence county chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

Attaches of three bodies in addition to members of the Moose family were located at various electrical devices, explained the experiment staged actual operations and recited the profitability of the change from the old to the new method which resulted in less work and more production at a saving.

Several hundred automobiles were parked in a field in the rear of the barn. A huge tent was erected east of the Moose residence where R. N. Moose at 12:30 p. m. welcomed 700 persons who had come to inspect the farm.

Addresses Made

Addresses were made by G. W. Kable, editor, Electricity on the Farm; W. S. Hagar, deputy state secretary of agriculture; A. B. Campbell, vocational agent, Mercer county; Harold McCulloch, Lawrence county farm agent, and E. C. Wiggins, Lawrence county schools vocational agent.

Paul Dingley, assistant to L. B. Round, vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania Power company, was called upon by Professor R. U. Blasingame, in charge of the department of agricultural engineering at Penn State college, who had charge of the speaking program.

Dingley explained Mr. Round was called by other business away from this section and reported the company was interested in the application of electricity in the production of agriculture following which he introduced E. S. Bayard, editor-in-chief of the Pennsylvania Farmer.

Editor Bayard's remarks were witty, informative and instructive. He said that, in regard to the young folk that the older people of today need not be afraid of the frivolity of the rising generation. "They are equally as sound and sweet today as they were in any day," he asserted.

Praises Experiment

He praised the experiment on the Moose farm and declared that progress was being made because of the willingness of such companies as the Pennsylvania Power to cooperate. He said that big men and big concerns always are willing to do their part.

Editor Bayard extolled the Future Farmers of America, then turning to the older persons of agriculture pointed out that the farm has been a good place to be on during the past ten years because no one on a farm had any fear of starvation and the farm of today is securing all conveniences.

Following the address those who had not had time to inspect the various electrical devices, which even included an electrical insect trap, did so. Red Cross shelters were provided at the farm. There was a "pop" stand and also a concession where lunches and ice cream could be secured. Traffic was directed by capable persons. Airplanes flew over the farm during the day taking photographs.

Among those present were: Edward Mangold, Ohio-Edison company, Akron; Roy Mercer, Ohio-Edison company, Salem; W. H. Ferguson, Duquesne Light company, Pittsburgh; Walter Carson and James Stere, West Penn Power company; F. O. Van Sickle, vice president, Shenandoah Manufacturing company, Harrisonburg, Va.; Lawrence Beville, International Harvester company, Chicago.

Dr. C. P. Bishop, head of the bureau of animal husbandry, Harrisburg; Parker Hess, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, Pittsburgh; V. S. Peterson, agricultural engineering extension, Penn State college; C. M. Gilpin, Pennsylvania Farmer; Robert Knight, Pennsylvania Power company, Greenville; F. A. Connor, division manager, Pennsylvania Power company, Greenville.

The electrical equipment on the farm was installed under the supervision of Walter Gross, who is in charge of the Pennsylvania Power company's rural electrification projects and the arrangements for Paul Dingley and R. N. Moose and sons.

Music was provided by the North Beaver township Future Farmers of America. A sketch which demonstrated production of agriculture without electrical equipment and with electrical equipment was staged by members of the vocational class of the Fredonia high school.

GERMANY BEGINS GREATEST EFFORT AGAINST FRANCE

at the Meuse, the attacks seem to be based upon artillery, dive bombing and infantry.

"The enemy does not appear to have used many armored elements as yet."

Started in Somme

"The infantry attacks were started in the middle of the Somme River area and in the region of the Oise River. At least, that is what they were pointed at the start of the fighting."

"I hope to have some details to give you this evening. We can only await the fate of the battle. We have confidence in our soldiers and leaders for the outcome of this battle."

"First news of the new assault in Paris was contained in the official communiqué of the French high command."

"All information received from the front since early morning shows that a new battle has begun," the war bulletin stated.

Violent enemy efforts up to the present are being directed between the sea and the Laon-Soissons road."

Soissons is about 55 miles northeast of Paris. Laon is about 20 miles northeast of Soissons.

"Supreme Bid"

French authorities made no secret of their opinion that the new attack is the German "supreme bid" for victory.

They indicated that the fate of Paris and the issue of the first phase of the European war hangs in the balance. Observers believed the outcome is a question of "touch and go."

A French high command spokesman said the Nazi offensive began at 4 a. m. with a tremendous artillery attack, followed by dive-bombing assaults and massed infantry charges.

In contrast to the previous German drive, "negligible" armored elements were used by the Nazis in their renewed push today, the spokesman declared.

Le Havre Again Bombed

While it was too early to give a definite indication, spearheads of the German drive appeared to be against the middle section of the Somme River defenses and east of the Oise River.

Advices received in Paris indicated the Germans were "shooting the works" in the new attack, unleashing warplanes, artillery batteries, a few mechanized troops and massed infantry regiments against the allied defenders.

At the same time, it was revealed that the German air force had carried out another attack against the great French port of Havre during the night, perhaps in a new attempt to hamper communications between France and Britain.

Houses there were still burning this morning as a result of bombs dropped by waves of German planes which circled over the Havre area for an hour last night.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE THREE-YEAR-OLD

In following this series on the development of average children of pre-school age, I ask that parents remember that no two children are alike in all phases of their growth. The Quints all started to do things at different ages. Yvonne learned to walk first, but Emilie talked first, and so on.

Many children will far exceed the generalized standards of development that I am mentioning in discussing the different stages and ages. On the other hand, many children won't come up to these standards, but this doesn't prove they are retarded by any means. What you will often find is that at the age of, let us say two years, one child will be away ahead of the average in his accomplishments, but by the time he is four, others have caught up to him or outstripped him.

This has been very well demonstrated by the cases of Marie and the rest of the Quintuplets. She is always slower about picking things up. Yet, she eventually does things as well, if not better, than some or all of her sisters.

A child's development depends upon a combination of experience and physical and mental growth. Altering the environmental factors, either by accident or by intent, can greatly change the rate of a child's progress.

By the age of three, our average child should be doing but little falling in his everyday walking and running. He can be depended upon not to drop or spill simple things he is carrying. He has developed balance and equilibrium. He is now self-confident in feats he attempts. Our one-year-old was reckless, at two he was cautious; at three, he holds his caution, but mixes in more daring as he discovers his increased abilities. He would rather walk along without holding the hand of the adult with him. He can (but shouldn't) cross the street alone.

By the time he is three, going on four, your child should do a pretty complete job of dressing himself, and he does fairly well caring for his own toilet habits and washing himself. Don't be upset, however, if he still needs reminders from time to time.

His sentences now become quite regular, and aren't just disjointed words any longer. The average vocabulary of your three-year-old is about nine hundred words. At two he was two hundred and seventy-five. He knows his full name and address, as he has been taught to remember it in case he should ever be lost. He is old enough to understand not to get panicky if he does get lost.

Numbers begin to mean something to him. He understands the difference between one and two and three. He can hang up his own clothes put away his toys—by this time he should be taught both. He likes helping mother about the house, he opens doors, drags chairs to tables.

Interest in things outside himself is greater. He begins to understand life, and to be upset because someone besides himself is hungry or cold. His question "why" is more omnipresent than ever. His curiosity is reaching a peak, and so is his tendency to run away. However, in the case of the three-year-old, loneliness may be the cause—he wants the companionship of Jimmy who lives down the street. His expanding intelligence requires more and more to interest it, and parents often do not recognize this. So the child becomes bored and runs away to find excitement. At three, our baby is beginning to feel possessive, he resents interference with things he considers his very own. He may begin to sense sympathy. Jealousy is well-developed and must be guarded against.

We will discuss four-year-olds tomorrow.

Will Have To Dredge River To Launch Ship

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., June 5.—Unless Uncle Sam deepens the Delaware river by at least five feet in front of the New York shipbuilding plant, launching of the new battleship South Dakota will be impossible, company officials asserted today.

Fred A. Cornell, yard superintendent, told a U. S. Engineers Board that the craft will draw 35 feet of water, five feet more than the present channel. The South Dakota is scheduled to leave the ways in 1942.

Cornell said that the company will be forced to dredge the stream unless the federal government acts in time for the launching. The Delaware is 37 feet deep at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, where the 35,000 ton battleship Washington was launched last Saturday.

American Legion And Auxiliary Give Awards To Youths

Medals For All-Round Boys And Girls Are Presented In Schools Of City

On Tuesday the presentation of the American Legion medal awards for outstanding scholarship, took place in St. Joseph's school, with the following four pupils receiving honors: Paul Peluso and Heen Rheinhard, first awards, and Donald Drueger and Dolores Mastren, second awards.

An interesting program was presented: Music of the birds by the seventh and eighth class. Presentation of the awards, by Attorney J. Glen Berry, who also gave a short address on the purpose of giving these awards, and the high standards required of those receiving them.

Awards to the girls were made by Mrs. Nick Speed and Mrs. John R. Wilson. "We Thank You," a response on behalf of the students, was given by Dolores Mastren, who thanked the American Legion for the annual awards and spoke words of appreciation.

The Rev. Fr. John O. Griffith, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's gave an interesting address. Father Griffith told the group that it was a very significant fact that the American Legion should give these awards annually for outstanding scholarship, leadership, courage, and service, rather than to award them for military honors. These awards were also given for the promotion of peace and for the development of character.

"Stars and Stripes Forever" was sung by the class, and the National Anthem brought the program to a fitting close. Miss Dorothy Krueger was the accompanist on the piano.

Liberty Loan Campaigns May Now Be Revived

Government Considers Methods Of Raising National Defense Funds

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Revival of the liberty loan campaign of World War days to help raise money for the government's national defense program is being discussed in treasury quarters today.

Officials emphasized that no definite conclusions had been reached concerning future government borrowing operations. They reported, however, that suggestions for a large-scale public distribution of the new tax-public debt legislation will receive thorough consideration.

The new tax-public debt legislation now before the house ways and means committee authorizes an increase of $3,000,000,000 in the public debt to $49,000,000,000 and the treasury purposes to issue new government securities in this amount maturing in five years.

Because the treasury rapidly is approaching the existing debt limit of $45,000,000,000, curtailment of "baby" bond sales may become necessary soon. For this reason, some federal financial advisers believe that at least part of the proposed national defense securities should be issued in small denominations so as to make them available to the small investor.

Secretary of the treasury Morgenthau has made frequent efforts to place portions of the government's normal bond and note issues in the hands of the "little fellow." These efforts, however, have not been particularly successful. Only the baby bond program, which is a part from the treasury's regular borrowing operations, has succeeded in meeting Morgenthau's objective of reaching the small investor.

Family In France Widely Scattered

Letter Written To Mrs. David Cox Here Tells Of War Conditions Abroad

There is a pathetic story told in the letter received by Mrs. David Cox, Butler avenue, from Mrs. Lyle Wimer, of Arlington, Va., sister-in-law of Arthur C. Wimer, special Washington correspondent for The News.

Mrs. Wimer wrote of her family in France, where they have resided all their lives. She told how the present war has sent the members of her family to widely scattered vicinities.

According to Mrs. Wimer's letter, her brother is now located close to the Belgian frontier in France, her brother-in-law is close to Paris, while her sister is in Paris, and Mrs. Wimer's mother is off somewhere Southwest of France.

Mrs. Wimer is well known in this district and her letter would be found of interest to many.

Defense Committee
Tells Objectives

Four-Point Purpose Set By GNCA Group; Cooperation Urged

A four-point program for the newly-formed National Defense committee of the Greater New Castle Association was announced today by Arthur H. Andrews, executive vice president of the GNCA.

Andrews said he will go to Washington shortly for follow-up conferences on defense expansion moves with government representatives. He conferred at the capital for a few days early in the defense speed-up period.

The association's defense group, headed by Walter W. Duff, discussed informally the entire defense program and its local effect at a recent session.

Andrews' office today was busy preparing data on New Castle's airport and industrial properties which has been requested by governmental departments and various business and industrial groups.

The prime purpose of the national defense group is to assist in making effective the program in New Castle and the county.

By initiating and carrying out special civilian activities, if and when they become necessary or desirable.

By so far as possible co-ordinating the civil activities of various groups, agencies and organizations.

By co-operating with and assisting when requested to do so, local, county, state and federal governmental officials, departments, etc.

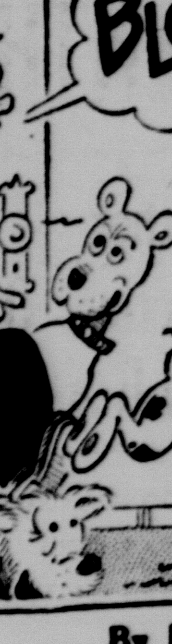

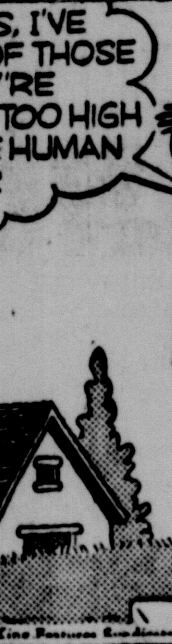

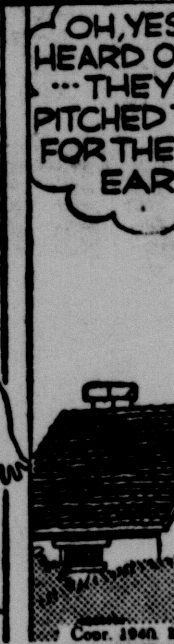

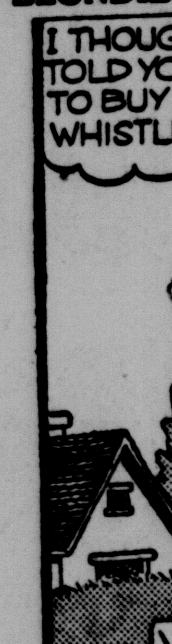

By serving as a clearing house of information relating to national defense matters.

The defense committee meets next at the call of Chairman Duff.

Inspection Of
Mail Boxes Here

Owners Of Boxes That Need
Repairs Have Been Sent
Notifications

Within a short time another inspection of the boxes on the rural routes serviced by the Mahoningtown branch post office is planned. For the annual May inspection, many boxes along the routes were found to be in a state of bad repair. Owners of these boxes were notified by the postal department and instructed to have them fixed. There is nothing that detracts so much from the appearance of a property as a sloppy and ugly mail box. Mail boxes, along country roads, serve to identify the resident who owns it and shabby boxes fail to make a good impression. Rural boxes erected at uniform height and supplied with the name of the owner makes it possible for the rural carrier to service the route much faster, thus providing better service for the patrons.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of Air, water, sleep, food; four essentials to life.

Just how important are these functions?

Man cannot live more than a few minutes without air.

He cannot live more than a few days without water.

No man lives more than two weeks without sleep.

A man will starve to death within 15 to 60 days.

Air we breathe into our system instinctively.

Water we get in our food and drink.

Sleep comes to repair the wear and tear of waking hours.

People have their individual ideas about food.

To live, man must have these four essentials.

In proper proportions, they sustain life's even tenor.

Giants Defeat Cincinnati Reds

Carl Hubbell With Airing Arm Takes First Placers By Score Of 5 To 4

By ED KIELY
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 5.—A few years ago baseball men, if given a choice, would have selected Dizzy Dean over Carl Hubbell because the Diz was young and strong and seemed destined to last many seasons longer than the aging, skinny Giant left-hander.

Yet today as the talkative Dean, with an ailing arm, headed south for his minor league, Hubbell was oiling up his legendary pitching arm for another successful season.

The screwball specialist, with a "slopbone" once given for dead because of a chipped elbow, won his fifth consecutive victory of the year yesterday as the New York Giants stopped the league-leading Cincinnati Reds 5 to 4. To make it more convincing that he is far from ready to hang up his spikes, King Carl knocked in the winning run with a single in the eighth.

Pirates Win At Night

Meanwhile, the Chicago Cubs unleashed some latent batting power to smash out 15 hits and overwhelm the Philadelphia Phillies, 12 to 6. Charley Root, another veteran who believes that life begins at 40, won this contest with a masterful relief job in which he held the Phils scoreless for five cantos.

The Brooklyn Dodgers moved up into within one game of the league-leading Reds by smashing the St. Louis Cardinals 10 to 1 in a night game at St. Louis. It was Vito Tamulis' third win without defeat. A crowd of 23,000 saw the Cards' first home night game.

The Pittsburgh Pirates attracted a crowd of 20,319 fans to their first home night game in which they trounced the Boston Bees 14 to 2. Judge K. M. Landis and Ford Frick attended.

Indians Split

In the American League the Cleveland Indians lost an opportunity to unseat the first-place Boston Red Sox. The Indians, only one game behind, split a doubleheader with the Washington Senators while the Red Sox dropped a 5 to 3 decision to the lowly St. Louis Browns.

The Senators won the opener with a 7 to 2 victory, young Ken Chase getting credit for the win. In the nightcap, Al Smith, for years a relief pitcher in the National League, chalked up his fifth victory against no defeats with a 3 to 2 triumph. Smith, however, had to be saved by Bob Feller when Washington started a revolt in the ninth.

Edgar Smith, the first left-hander to face the New York Yankees since May 20, halted the world's champions four-game winning streak by allowing only seven hits as the Chicago White Sox won 7 to 3. Joe Kuhel rapped out two round-trippers for the victors. To make the day a complete reversal for the first division clubs, the Philadelphia Athletics upset the Detroit Tigers, 8 to 6.

NATIONAL PANTS WIN

The National Pants softball team won from the Water company team at a utility league game, 14 to 4. The winning pitcher was Smith.

Sokols win championship . . . Congratulations are in order for the New Castle A. R. John Uram, Steve Teplica, George Molsko, Red Warso, Harry Hordig, "Chink" Dutkin and Steve Molsko flaunted the local colors. . . .

Uram, ex-New Castle and Salem College ace, grabbed the 100-yard scamper in 10.2 seconds. Dutkin, ex-Hurricane cage wizard, tucked in the high jump first place honor with a 5 feet 7 inch leap. The remaining members of the team shared second and third place honors to bring home the bacon. John Teplica, another ex-Hurricane cage luminary, coached the cinder burners.

The New Castle A. R. S. lassies came in second in the women's competition. Out of the female meet, Mary Teplica forged to the front with the women's all events title. Helen Uram finished third. For their efforts, the local athletes came home with a batch of medals and a trophy.

Stepping around against the clever Joey Yarosz, a few nights back, down the Beaver Valley, the local leather pusher was never better, putting on one of his best performances. Pirates, Dodgers Win Under Lights

Buccos Smother Pesty Bees, 14-2; Bottles Fly As Cards Lose, 10-1

Night baseball came to Pittsburgh last night with over 20,000 fans on hand to witness the novelty.

The Pittsburgh Pirates proved to the gallery that while they can't win in the daylight they're not so bad under the arcs, walloping the pesty Boston Bees, 14-2.

Joe "Weak Legs" Bowman was stubborn, refusing to let the Bees make honey. A pair of rookies, Elliott and VanRobays, sparked the hitting attack while Bowman held the bean eaters to five blows.

Bottles Fly

In St. Louis Sportsman's park a double attraction was staged. The pennant mad Brooklyn Dodgers snowed under the warring Cards, 10-1.

The fans joined in the contest in the seventh, showering the field with bottles, their way of showing they didn't like the ump's ruling on "Babe" Phelps who overran second and was caught. One ump said he was out; the other ruled he wasn't. Then came the shower.

Changes Suggested To P.I.A.A. For Vote

Would Ban All Post-Season High School Football Games

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, June 5.—Banning of all post-season high school football games was urged today in proposals placed before the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association by various steering committees.

The P. I. A. A. board of control will consider the matter and refer it back to the members for the final vote, possibly before the general meeting next winter.

Other changes considered by the board are:

Limiting contestants to participation in no more than three track events and reducing the distance of class B hurdles from 120 yards to 110 yards.

Permitting schools to begin grid practice three weeks prior to the opening game, providing the opening game is not until one week has elapsed in September. No school may play more than 10 games per season.

Extending the championship golf tournament from 36 to 54 holes and permitting districts with 20 or more schools to send four contestants for each 20 schools.

Holding a state tennis tournament. In both tennis and golf, the year's winners become seeded the succeeding year.

Dallas "Dolly" Hartman, veteran pitcher and infielder of the Elders A. C. entered the City Baseball League Hall of Fame last night at Lockley Field by pitching a magnificent no-run no-hit game, beating the Moose 4 to 0. He fanned five men.

Calderaro hit a homer when Chill let the ball get away from him in deep right field. The Elders only had three hits off George Hall. Hartman issued three walks, and Hall one. Hall fanned three batters.

The game was a pitching duel all the way with Hartman fogging them through in great shape. Tonight the Elders battle Croton at Lockley Field in a postponed game, at 6 o'clock.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEKAL

Friday night some few hundred seniors will walk across the stage at the Cathedral and thus end their public school life. This past week they have been enjoying the pleasures that go with graduation...

... they have been the "big folks" at the High School... parties have been held in their honor and it just seems to them that the world is revolving around their activities. That's fine... the thrill of graduating from High School only comes once in a life time...

... and the student that doesn't take advantage of the situation is missing a lot of good times... times that can be carried down in the memory book and when he is older... these memories furnish some mighty pleasant talk when he spends an evening with some of the old crowd. So here's to the graduating boy and girl of today, may their dreams of the future come true... In a land that is FREE... the U. S. A.

And again and again the donors of dogs say they have a nice little pooch for a home that will really take care of their pet.

Mrs. Cecil Woodward, Phone 147-J... Just a dog about 3 1/2 years old. Female. Will make some one a good pet.

Mrs. Johnson, 414 Bell Avenue... small terrier, 2 1/2 years old, female. Fine for a small boy or girl.

Croton Avenue has been repaired by the city... all the deep holes have been dug up and new cement laid in place of the material that was put down last year. Now if all passes the state inspection, the state will take the responsibility of the street and keep it in first class condition... let's hope the street passes inspection... as this street is used by a great many people not living in the vicinity of New Castle.

For some reason traffic using route 224 going west gets lost in our downtown section... just why a great deal of traffic turns right at Mercer street is hard to say... but motorists do and we find them out North Mercer street hill... maybe the route signs are not prominent enough? That is a problem for the state traffic department to check.

Please drive carefully at all times.

Leaders Drop Off 1 To 3 Points Under Moderate Selling Today

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, June 5.—The stock market weakened today as Hitler launched a major offensive toward Paris. Leaders dropped 1 to 3 points on a broad front under moderate selling which persisted from the opening.

Volume, while still of comparatively small proportions, ran well ahead of the year's low of 410,000 shares.

Steels, Aviations, Motors and Blue-Chips generally suffered the largest losses.

Bethlehem tumbled more than 3 points before meeting support, while U. S. Steel, National and Youngstown Sheet & Tube each broke more than 2.

Union Pacific also fell 3 points, as other Rails gave up fractions to a point. Declines of 2 or more were incurred by Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, American Air Lines, Owens-Illinois Glass, Eastman Kodak, American Telephone and International Business Machines.

Scores of pivotal issues slipped a point or more, including General Motors, Lockheed, Glenn L. Martin, Boeing, American Smelting, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse Electric, American Locomotive, Sears Roebuck, Public Service of N. J., and American Can.

French Port Bombed by Nazis

Forty persons were estimated killed as Nazi airmen pained the French Mediterranean port of Marseilles (above). The flight was believed a gesture to Italy, showing that Germany has planes to spare to aid an Italian drive against France. (Central Press)

Huge Shipments Of Gold Received From Abroad

Britain And France Send Shipments To New York For Safety

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 5.—The greatest single daily influx of gold in United States history, reliably estimated at $286,720,000 in value, was safe from possible Nazi confiscation today within the heavily guarded underground vaults of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

The huge shipment of gold represented reserves from the central vaults of the Bank of France and the Bank of England and possibly some Belgian and Dutch metal shipped across the channel at the German invasion of the low countries. It had been rushed from London and Paris to Canada, presumably by warship or under heavy convoy, and from there transferred by rail to New York.

A long line of express trucks brought the gold to the bank in an all-day procession yesterday. It was loaded 80 cars to the truck, according to observers. Since each case is worth $56,000, each truck carried $4,480,000, and since 64 trucks were counted, it was calculated that at least $286,720,000 had been transferred.

Bank officials declined to discuss the gold influx which presumably was ordered to clear the bank vaults of France and England of the precious metal lest it possibly fall into German hands. It was believed most of the gold would be earmarked for the Allies although a part may be used to finance purchase of war supplies.
